FOUNDATION FOR INTERNATIONAL LAW AND MANAGEMENT

The Foundation for International Law and Management is a nonprofit educational corporation that provides financial and advisory support to the International Law & Management Review.

The Foundation's board of directors is comprised of law and management professionals, academics, and students from around the country who are dedicated to promoting practical and progressive scholarship in the oft-intersecting areas of international law and management.

The Foundation is governed by a board of directors composed of seven members. The board consults with an advisory committee made up of law and business practitioners and professors in the United States and abroad.
