BYU EDUCATION AND LAW JOURNAL

INTRODUCTION

The BYU Education and Law Journal (Journal) is published jointly by the J. Reuben Clark Law School and the Brigham Young University Department of Educational Leadership. The Journal represents the evolution from Perspectives, an informational pamphlet composition, to the more comprehensive format seen in the present issue.

The purpose of the Journal is to provide a forum for scholarly works concerning law and education. While the fundamental focus is on K-12 education, the Journal occasionally publishes articles focusing on higher education in order to establish perspective on the education field in general. The Journal is designed as a practical help to those directly involved in the educational process.

Since announcing the change from Perspectives to the present Journal we have received a very positive response. We encourage all readers to submit articles to the Journal for possible publication. To subscribe to future issues of the Journal, to submit articles, or to comment on the new format, contact:
